

MGF SUSPENSION KIT

From the outset MGFs have always been praised for their handling characteristics; which deliver a combination of sports car handling and saloon car ride. Hydragas displacers fitted alongside conventional telescopic dampers add to the overall damping effect. In recent years, as hydragas units have come to the end of their service life, the lack of available replacement units has posed a real problem to enthusiasts of the model. In response Suplex, a German manufacturer of original equipment coil springs and damper units; working closely with their UK division, have developed a viable long term solution to failing MGF hydragas suspension. Achieved without compromising the vehicles original handling characteristics.

The kit comprises of four machined displacer replacement housings, with a hard black anodised finish and fitted with internal variable rate coil springs; four specifically tuned telescopic dampers and fitting instructions for straightforward replacement of the original suspension.

Note: the displacer units are sold in a black anodised finish
